

Dear Ajit Pai and the FCC,

Net neutrality and the level playing field it creates represents the foundation this country was built on. The historic period of growth we've seen in America since the start of the consumer web is owed to Net Neutrality. Because of that we've been able to create more economic value and jobs within the tech sector than every country in Europe combined.

Ajit - I would warn against selling your soul, but it seems you already may have. I would like to ask though, what do you want to be remembered for? You can lie to yourself all you want about the implications of removing net neutrality, for now. But the benefits of doing so won't last forever. Your reputation and legacy will.

Do the right thing! Keep net neutrality.

- Sam Davidson